"The Reckoning" exceeds expectations with well documented information about how nations who understand accounting also understand more about the economy--and themselves (since we all have to give an accounting of our lives as well). "The Reckoning" documents how nations that succeed financially don't do so automatically.

US Elections: After a summer of racial reckoning, race is on the ballot. While the coronavirus and battered economy have overtaken issues of race as the focal points in presidential and congressional campaigns, despite the disproportionate impact of both on communities of color, systemic racism and police reform have emerged as dominant themes in a number of local elections.
